ITINERARY

Monday 23 June 2025

The group will meet in Dublin airport in the morning for onward travel to Edinburgh where we will arrive mid-afternoon to check in to our hotel.

Once everyone has successfully checked in to the hotel, there will be an early group dinner at the hotel, followed by a city tour of Edinburgh (taking in the Edinburgh Castle Esplanade, Royal Mile, Grassmarket and the Palace of Holyrood House).

Tuesday 24 June 2025

Following an early breakfast at our hotel, the group will travel by bus (approximately 2.5 hours) to Montrose to visit the Origin Fertiliser Plant where we will hear about the Origin Nutri – Match prescription fertiliser. This blending gives local farmers the ability to order tailor made fertilisers that match their specific needs. We will also visit the Arbikie Estate and Distillery where we will be given a guided tour of the distillery and hear from the farm manager about their tillage operation and value adding of their own barley. Lunch will be included as part of this farm visit.

After lunch we will make our way back towards Edinburgh, visiting the James Hutton Institute and the Arable Scotland site in Invergowrie, on the edge of Dundee on the way. At the James Hutton Institute we will be given an insight into some of the latest arable research happening in Scotland and a tour of the vertical farm facility.

On our return to Edinburgh the day will wrap up with another included group dinner.

Wednesday 25 June 2025

After another early breakfast the group will once again travel by bus (approximately 1 hour) to the Scottish Agronomy Summer Trials Open day in Balgonie Estate. While visiting the Scottish Agronomy site we will be given the chance to see some of the research being carried out for the local industry in trials and in the field. Some of this work will include new varieties, and fungicide and herbicide evaluations among other technologies.

During the afternoon we will take the opportunity to visit St. Andrews, a seaside town northeast of Edinburgh that is known for its many golf courses, the ruins of St. Andrews Castle with its medieval bottle dungeon, and the University of St. Andrews.

We will return to Edinburgh for an included group dinner, which will be attended by guest speaker Adrian James from the Agriculture and Horticulture Development Board (AHDB). Adrian will give us an overview of the Scottish arable industry and will touch on current issues and challenges facing the sector locally, allowing time for a short Q&A.

Thursday 26 June 2025

This morning we will visit Simpsons Malt Grain Stores in Gladsmuir (approximately 30 minutes from Edinburgh). This family run business was founded in 1862 and has two malting and six grain storage sites across the UK. With four of these sites in Scotland. The Gladsmuir site comprises nine sheds and three silos.

Following lunch, we will visit two farms, one will be the Wester Braikie Farm, a 275Ha arable farm run by Amy Geddes and family near Arbroath. Here Amy will give us an overview of her operations on the farm, and will outline her involvement in the Voluntary Initiative (VI) for Integrated Pest Management. The second farm is yet to be confirmed. After our farm visits we will return to Edinburgh.

Friday 27 June 2025

After breakfast, we will check out of the hotel (bags can be stored at the hotel reception) and you can enjoy a free morning to explore Edinburgh in more detail before we depart for the airport for our early afternoon return flight to Dublin. The options are plentiful – maybe climb Arthur's Seat and take in the stunning views of the city, take a tour of Edinburgh Castle, view the Royal Yacht Britannia or visit the Dynamic Earth Science Centre, or even sample a few Scotch Whisky's at the Whisky Experience – the choice is yours!
